

HASTINGS Writers Room

PRESS RELEASE

October 2019

New Resource for Authors

Hastings Writers Room launched this month with two new competitions: short stories on the theme of Misrepresentation, and a challenging flash fiction format – 5/29 – for which authors are invited to submit a collection of five 29-word stories. Prizes from £50 to £200.

Hastings Writers Room will be offering courses, competitions, and relevant services to new and established authors, and is open to anyone in the Hastings (East Sussex) area, nationally, or internationally.

Writing courses begin locally in 2020, and will run over a half-day, full-day, or two days (with residential option). All the courses are designed to be held in small, informal groups providing maximum opportunity for participants to discuss and develop their own writing. Bursary places may be available in some cases.

Hastings Writers Room is also keen to work with writing-related service providers. Copy editors, proof-readers, illustrators, lecturers and tutors: if you have something to offer, please see Work with Us on the website.
